DAHLIAS.

OUR Dahlia Garden at the Great Wembley Exhibition in 1924 and 1925 was visited by people from all parts of the world, including Members of our own Royal Family, and was one of the most pleasing exhibits in the Horticultural Section, despite the fact that the year 1924 was a very trying season (owing to the excessive rainfall and lack of sunshine) for all bedding plants. The Dahlia, however, bravely withstood such conditions, and wherever it was planted, made striking displays, amply demonstrating its usefulness as a plant which can be relied on under severe rough weather conditions, and one which can be had in flower over a longer period of time (from July until October or until cut down by frost) than any other flowering plant we know of.

The very striking displays in the London and other parks and open spaces is a proof of their increasing popularity. When used for massed effects, they can be planted much closer than is usually recommended for Dahlias, viz. :—2' apart. We always impress upon intending planters to use good strong stakes at the time of planting and later using four more about nine inches from the base of the plant, incline them outwards. Your plant will be well secured by using any soft cord such as fillis or old untwisted rope.

Commencing your ties about a foot from the ground, and adding more ties as the plant increases in height. Let your stakes be of one height, well pushed into the soil, keeping them one foot below the height which you anticipate your plant will attain (consult your catalogue as to heights). We, however, find that plants in the London areas grow rather taller than in our district. Untidy staking detracts from the beauty of any plant. It is necessary to use vigilance before and after planting. It is not advisable to plant Dahlias on ground previously used for potatoes. Presuming your ground has been prepared before planting, give it a dressing of fresh slaked lime. Early in the morning or late of an evening when planting, it is most necessary to see that the soil (which should be nice and fine) is carefully filled around the neck of the plant (the spot where slugs will harbour). A little extra vigilance should be exercised for a few weeks (as it is in their young stage, when slugs do so much damage to the tender stem). After a few weeks care, they harden and are not so liable to attack. An occasional dusting of lime or soot will be most helpful in guarding against insect pests. In warm dry weather, give your plants a slight sprinkle each evening. If you have a syringe with a bend so much the better as you wet the under surfaces of the leaves. Earwigs are, at times, trying, they can however, be trapped by leaving any small dry receptacle on the surface of the ground, such as empty match boxes, short pieces of bamboo cane, etc., into which they can crawl—let these be examined occasionally. Dahlias must not be planted under trees or in shade.

CONDITIONS.

Clients should state clearly when they would like their plants sent on. If they have proper conveniences for sheltering them (such as a green house or frames) they can be sent from the end of April. Those who have no such means of protection should have them from the second week in May until (for more Northerly districts) the 1st week in June. Those who have their plants early should pot them on, and when properly rooted remove to cooler and more airy quarters.

Rail charges on plants in pots, particularly for long distances are fairly heavy, we, however strongly advise our clients to have them in this manner, as they do so much better, and establish themselves right away when planted. Clients who wish them sent knocked out of pots, should add 1/6 for postage on 12 plants or 2/6 for 24.

All our plants are properly hardened in cold frames before being despatched. We suggest to our numerous clients, who may not be acquainted with the several sections and newer forms to leave the selection to us, stating clearly whether they are wanted for garden decoration or solely for exhibition. To those who are Dahlia lovers a perusal of our Catalogue will confirm their knowledge that only proved varieties are sent out. Our experience of well over half-a-century enabling us to supply varieties that will sure to please.

Great care is exercised in giving the correct height of each variety. This however is influenced by weather conditions. If very hot and dry, they usually grow taller.

Colonial and Foreign Orders are not executed until a remittance is received. It would materially assist if all necessary permits are included at the time of ordering and in addition include 1/- for examination fee by the Board of Agriculture, postage to London and thence to destination.

Dahlia Seed is often asked for ; the result only leads to disappointment as they never come true to type.

“ Say it with Flowers.”

This Illustration is shown so that those who are interested in the Dahlia may know that its value as a Decorative Flower has varied uses. In this Display, a Cup was offered for a Collection of Floral Designs. In it was included Bouquets, a Sheaf, Victorian Posy, Button Holes, Sprays, a Wreath, etc., etc. This was the first Occasion in which a Competitive Class for Floral Designs made entirely with Dahlias was offered. The Monroe Challenge Cup was won by us.
